Adapting to the low carbon economy – reporting and accounting issues
Thursday, 27 September 2012

The Carbon Price Mechanism (CPM) commenced on 1 July 2012 requiring industry to review its financial and reporting practises.

The CPM comprises a fixed price phase until 30 June 2015 followed by a flexible price phase when the emission trading system (ETS) commences. Compliance with the new regime will impact industry in terms of its financial, accounting, operational and strategic processes. The Monash Faculty of Business and Economics has been actively researching the implication for industry. The Faculty also offers targeted units on specific climate change and carbon pricing issues. This seminar will look at the implementation of the CPM, including the various compliance, reporting and accounting issues that are emerging from the research, and what the future may hold.

Introducing the Faculty of Business and Economics
The Faculty of Business and Economics is the largest faculty in the University in terms of student numbers. The Faculty’s operations cover many disciplines, locations, research, consultancy and educational activities. The faculty has six multi campus discipline based departments – Accounting and Finance, Business Law and Taxation, Econometrics and Business Statistics, Economics, Management, and Marketing.
